UFOs Appear Often Over Desert Center, California!

by Hachiro Kubota & Junichi Kato

Young members of GAP-Japan together with Hachiro Kubota made a 5-day trip to Desert Center during the 1997 New Year's holidays. Desert Center is an isolated area in Southern California, U.S.A., where, on November 20, 1952, George Adamski made dramatic contact with a Venusian who had disembarked from a scout ship. During the trip, the group saw UFOs a number of times. These are their stories.

A Hunch Borne Out

by Hachiro Kubota

I had a strong feeling — a hunch — before leaving Japan for Desert Center, that some amazing things were going to happen. I have visited there many times over the years, more frequently since January 21, 1989 — at least ten times since then — when I located the exact spot of George Adamski's first contact with the Venusian. Desert Center has been an important place for me. On December 31 last year, inside the plane to the U.S. along with twelve members of Reimeikai (literally "party of wisdom," a study group of younger GAP-Japan members). I was very relaxed, in part, perhaps, because I so enjoyed the in-flight movie Independence Day. Arriving in Los Angeles, we boarded a chartered bus and hit the road south toward Palm Springs. The night view of that famous resort city was fantastic. Holiday decorations were still up, and countless small lights were shining and twinkling everywhere. We stayed at a motel called the Travelodge. Palm Springs, with a number of separate buildings dotted across vast grounds. There we were joined by Mr. Daniel Ross. He had driven 800 kilometers from the city of Concord, in Northern California, to be part of our tour.

First UFO Appears Over the Motel!

The next morning, we were to gather on the terrace at nine. When I went down a little early, most of the tour members were already there. They told me excitedly that they had just seen a UFO in the sky over the open area in front of the motel. It was hovering at a very low altitude and they were able to photograph it. What a good start, we all thought. "The space people are encouraging us," we said, and left inspired for the day. This was the first appearance of a UFO during the tour.

On our way to Adamski's contact spot, we had lunch at a restaurant in front of a gas station at the heart of Desert Center. It was the same restaurant where Adamski and his friends had stopped before his monumental encounter with the Venusian. I have known the area for some twenty years, and it seems to be deteriorating rapidly these days. It had been cloudy when we left Palm Springs, but by the time we arrived in the desert it was clear and we were enjoying beautiful sunshine — perfect conditions for photography. The first thing I did after getting off the bus was to take a lot of pictures of the open desert land from the highway with a medium-format camera. From the word "desert," most people imagine an ocean of beautiful, fine sand, like the Sahara Desert in Africa. But this desert is not that kind. Part of the great Mojave Desert covering a large portion of the American Southwest, it is barren land with a hard surface, scattered low shrubs, and stones everywhere. The temperature in summer reaches more than 40 degrees Celsius. But we were there in winter, and it was a very comfortable 14 degrees. We began walking together toward the contact spot. The distance to the spot from the Parker Highway, where we got off the bus, is 600 meters. (We measured it precisely using a measuring tape some years ago.)

Another UFO Appears!

I found the contact spot on January 21, 1989, while searching the area with six other people, including Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ross. We were carrying pictures reproduced in the book Other Tongue - Other Flesh, by George H. Williamson. In such a vast area, for anyone to find a specific point by chance is most improbable, and, to tell the truth, I do not believe it was happenstance in my case. I strongly believe that I was guided somehow by a UFO high in the sky above. George Williamson was one of the six people who witnessed Adamski's first contact with the Venusian. An anthropologist, he afterward made the plaster casts of the Venusian's footprints from the soles of the man's shoes. The picture of that scene helped me greatly in locating the spot. By the way, those footprints showed strange figures that represent a portion of the propulsion principle for UFOs. Mr. Akinori Endo, a staff member at the headquarters of GAP-Japan, has studied the figures and understands them almost completely. He has presented his findings publicly on several occasions.

When our group reached the contact spot, the tour members began lining up to take a souvenir picture. At the moment we were about to take it, I had a strange feeling and turned to look at the western sky. Wow! There it was! I could clearly see the shining object, and I shouted, "Look at that!" Everyone turned at once, and a collective cry of joy arose. The souvenir photograph was instantly forgotten as many in the group began to take pictures of the object. "This is the greatest souvenir," someone exclaimed.

The group enjoyed another hour of free time in the area, walking around, seeing more UFOs, according to some of them, while I stayed at the contact spot, watching the bags and other items the members had left there. It was then that I, too, saw something, a white, cigar-shaped object far away in the sky — but I cannot be sure it was a ship from another planet. We left the site in late afternoon.

Mount Palomar Shrouded in Fog

The next day, January 2, we went together to Palomar Gardens, on Mt. Palomar, where George Adamski used to live. Unfortunately, the mountain was totally enveloped in fog and visibility was poor. It was also the day after New Year's, so we saw no other people, and this added to the lonely atmosphere. I knew that the famous astronomical observatory at the top would be closed, so we decided not to go up. We had lunch at a outdoor table, wet with mist, in Palomar Gardens. "Palomar Gardens," by the way, is what the area was called by Adamski; officially, it is now the Oak Knoll Campground. The remains of some rock work done by Adamski are still there. The place where the restaurant owned by Alice Wells used to stand is now covered with cement, and will probably be preserved that way forever. I heard that a noble American Indian lady who was once one of Adamski's students bought the land to make it a memorial park — a reminder of him.

Delighted to See So Many UFOs

by Junichi Kato

The third tour to Desert Center conducted by Reimei-kai was a great success, thanks to Mr. Kubota's expert guidance and wonderful lectures throughout the trip. We saw UFOs frequently, and were able to successfully photograph and videotape them.

Mr. Kubota's Remarkable Prediction

Mr. Kubota clearly predicted UFOs would appear before us during the tour. Now, every time I look at the pictures we took, my heart is filled with joy and tremendous respect for Mr. Kubota's remarkable telepathic ability. Our experiences with him were absolutely wonderful.

This time we asked Mr. Kubota to give us lectures during the tour, in order to make the whole trip that much more meaningful. A "seminar" schedule was developed as follows: (A) A detailed on-the-spot explanation of Adamski's first contact with the Venusian at Desert Center. (B) Practical guidance in Cosmic Meditation at the contact spot. (C) A third Q&A session with Reimei-kai members at the motel in Palm Springs. (D) An on-the-spot explanation of how George Adamski lived at Palomar Gardens and the famous incident in which a negative holder was thrown down from a UFO. We also asked Mr. Kubota to be our tour guide, because he had visited the United States more than twenty times. We thus benefitted, as well, from his many comments about many places and scenes in California while we were traveling on the bus. This arrangement made our tour even more meaningful, and gave us many wonderful opportunities to understand Mr. Kubota's cosmic way of thinking more clearly. We also came to recognize anew the importance of what George Adamski did. All members worked together during the tour, helped each other, and fulfilled their individual responsibilities.

A Special Feeling Precedes Each Sighting

Throughout the tour, we saw UFOs many times, individually, altogether, and in various smaller groups. The one that most of us witnessed just before leaving Palm Springs for Desert Center on the morning of New Year's Day was very special, in that it was hovering at quite a low altitude and was photographed clearly by Mr. Nishikawa. We felt it was wishing us good luck at Desert Center!

I was the first to see that particular craft. Just before I did, a special feeling came to me — the same feeling I get almost every time I see a UFO. It was an inspired, urgent sensation, as if I were being watched by someone. The ship then usually appears, not in front of me, but to the rear. I have to turn around and look up to see it — and I try to do that, whenever I get the feeling. It was at 8:50 in the morning when I noticed this UFO. I was on the terrace of the hotel, having a light breakfast with Mr. Kitami and Ms. Shiro. At first it remained at quite a low altitude, probably less than 50 meters above us. It looked black then (changing intermittently to reddish black), but by the time other tour members joined us, the color had changed to silver grey and the whole body of the object began shining softly. (I was not sure whether the gleam emanated from the object or was only the reflection of sunlight coming through the thick clouds.) It slowly increased its altitude and finally disappeared into the cloudy sky. It made no sound throughout, and stayed visible to us for nearly ten minutes.

While we were watching it, some American lodgers came over and saw the same object. But they quickly left, saying, "That's a balloon." I really wanted to tell them, "No! It's a UFO! Our friends from another planet are inside!" But I couldn't. I was not sure enough. I felt strongly that I needed to improve my abilities to discern true cosmic phenomena and to understand my impressions accurately. Shortly thereafter, however, when I talked with Mr. Okada about the sighting, I became totally convinced that it had been a flying saucer. Mr. Okada had seen the same object through binoculars from the second-floor outside passage of the motel. He said it had been saucer-shaped and that the color was silver. That description was later verified by a picture taken by Mr. Nishikawa. Mr. Okada also said that the rim of the saucer had been shining in white, but that does not show in the picture. Here's something else that's strange: I also photographed the object when its entire body was shining, but my developed picture shows only a black object. In contrast, when Mr. Nishikawa photographed it, it had, according to him, looked black and flat through the lense of his camera, and he was very surprised to see such a clear image of a flying saucer in his picture afterward.

It's Important to Trust Your Feelings

The flying saucer had disappeared before Mr. Kubota arrived at the terrace. Earlier that morning, Mr. Tsuda and I had been wondering if it might be better to postpone the visit to Desert Center till the next day, because it was so cloudy. When Mr. Kubota appeared, we asked his opinion. After we reported the sighting, he immediately made up his mind, saying, "Let's go!" Then he added, "We'll have beautiful weather over there. I know that from my experience, and from the feeling I'm getting now." So we followed him, and, as he forecast, the weather at Desert Center was beautiful. Warm sunshine and a pleasant breeze on and off were waiting for us. I realized that one of the secrets of Mr. Kubota's being able to maintain GAP-Japan for 36 years is such strong leadership based on keen insight and decisiveness.

We arrived at the desert, and, despite the dramatic sighting of a UFO earlier in the morning, the tour members were not particularly animated. They watched quietly as Mr. Kubota carefully photographed the site, which was one of his main purposes for visiting there as a professional photographer.

UFOs Again!

We then we walked into the desert together.

Mr. Kubota led us to the exact spot where George Adamski made the first contact with the Venusian, and then to the spot where the flying saucer from Venus had landed. His lectures at the two locations were filled with confidence and dignity, making me feel as if Adamski and Orthon were really there. The Cosmic Meditation we practiced together at the contact spot was fantastic, too. I was so happy to share that peaceful time with Mr. Kubota and the other tour members, especially in such a monumental place. Time seemed to pass very slowly. We enjoyed another hour of free time, experiencing the pleasure of the vibrations of the site. Many of us saw UFOs while we were there, individually and in small groups, but the one Mr. Kubota found in the western sky just before we were to take a souvenir picture was seen by all of us, and was the most impressive.

A UFO Sees Us Off

Mr. Kubota's final lecture in Desert Center was on the "saddle," a spot between two peaks over which a flying saucer was hovering just before the historic contact. We then headed to the bus. We were leaving the site, and I did not want to go. It was 4:23 in the afternoon. I was walking at the rear end of the group, with Mr. Obara and Ms. Aida, looking back toward the site time and again. I said to the women, "In Reimei-kai, we are accustomed to expressing our gratitude to space people, after we have made telepathic calls to them." I took off my cap and bowed toward the contact spot. So did they. When we raised our faces — just then — there appeared a white saucer-shaped flying object! It was as if they had been waiting for the moment to let us see them once again. Through binoculars, I could see a pointed end, and the whole surface was milk-white and looked very smooth. Mr. Mishima, who was nearby, even though he could not see the object with his naked eye, succeeded in photographing it. Mr. Tsuda and Ms. Shiro also saw it when they happened to look back toward the contact spot. I believe it was the space people's special treat, offered to us at the very end of our visit to Desert Center. I thanked them again for the wonderful New Year's present, and felt strongly that they were always with us.

Space People Help All of Us Equally

Lastly, I would like to repeat one of Mr. Kubota's answers, given in the question-and-answer session held in the evening at the motel in Palm Springs, after our visit to the site. To a question about space people's help to us, he replied; "Space people help not only those who believe what George Adamski told us. They pay their respects equally to everyone, even to those who don't believe in Adamski's experience, because they know every human being is a child of the Creator of the Universe. They are helping all Earthlings as a group to improve ourselves and become a true member of this solar system. Thus, in essence, they are not helping individuals on Earth, but the society called Earth." This, I felt, was the answer to the question I myself had: "What did the UFOs we saw today, and the space people who were probably on those ships, want to tell us?" I will never forget the precious time I was able to share with Mr. Kubota, Mr. Ross and all the other members of the tour. We traveled across Mother Earth in California together, saw UFOs frequently despite the skepticism of many, made telepathy calls to space people from the historic site, and so much more. Each of the moments is registered indelibly in my mind. Now, even though I may be failing in my attempt to express myself to readers, I truly and sincerely hope that the pictures and articles in this newsletter will cause more people to become interested in these matters and to join GAP — our Get-Acquainted Program. Thank you very much.

(Mr. Kato, author of this article, is the chief secretary at the headquarters of GAP-Japan. He seems to have a special Cosmic Karma because he sees UFOs very often in Japan as well. Editor)

Questions & Answers

by George Adamski

This Q & A was published by George Adamski in 1957 and sent to his co-workers all over the world. This contains much valuable information on UFO issues even now. (Editor, Uc)

Q82. Can you give more technical information regarding the propulsion of the space ships?

A: Nothing more than I have already published. Although I have seen these ships in operation during trips in them, and have had some of the instruments explained to me, yet I cannot give detailed information about their workings, any more than the average mechanic could explain the operation of an airplane engine after a few rides in a plane.

This I do know, their power is drawn from space the same as we draw the breath that keeps our bodies alive. In each case Nature's elements are converted into power or energy.

I have seen lightning strike a tree and set it afire, and have been told that more energy is expended in one bolt of lightning than can be generated by all the power stations on Earth at a given instant. The visitors, working in harmony with Nature, have learned how to harness this energy; but because of our hostility toward one another, they did not explain the details of their process to me.

When we realize that an instrument no longer than a cigarette package, in the hands of an unscrupulous person, could with this power destroy a form without leaving a trace, we can understand their hesitancy in sharing such knowledge with us.

As told in INSIDE THE SPACE SHIPS, our scientists are working toward this end, and in time undoubtedly will discover how to utilize this power of the universe; but then, the use made of it will be our responsibility. So let us hope that before Nature unlocks her secret for us, we will have progressed much farther along the pathway of compassionate fellowship.

Q83. How will our scientists alert us to the approaching changes which will affect Earth?

A: By radio, through the press, and by means of various publications. An amazing amount of information is being given to the people in these days, as scientific reports of the findings of the International Geophysical Year are being released. As we all know, this research is being conducted by the leading scientists of 67 nations, who are delving into a detailed study of our planet. They are working together in complete cooperation, exchanging data on every subject from the composition of the core of Earth, to the latest information obtained from orbiting satellites. The whole world owes these learned men a debt of gratitude, for in the interest of science they ignore all barriers of nationality and political bickering.

One of the latest and most complete reports I have had the pleasure of reading is a little pocket edition, "THE WORLD IN SPACE." It is published by Dell Publishing Co. Inc., 750 Third Ave., New York 17, N.Y. and sells for 35c in the United States.

This edition was copyrighted in April, 1958; and naturally, more information is being compiled as data continues to be gathered. However, I do recommend this book as informative, and for the laying of a good groundwork to enable comprehensive reading of future releases.

Q84. Was Nikola Tesla a Venusian?

A: Not to my knowledge. At least, he was not brought here in a space ship. Nikola Tesla was born on Earth. However, it is more than possible that he carried with him a memory of past experiences in the field of electrical science. This is not uncommon, for examples of it are found in the "child wonders" who astound the world with their knowledge.

Or it is possible that Tesla, deeply interested in electricity, tuned into the vast sea of Cosmic Knowledge by directing his thoughts along these channels. Since the Cosmos contains all wisdom, therefore the answers to all questions, he could have opened his mind and received information on this subject from its universal source.

This, actually, is what is known as telepathy; and is used frequently (knowingly and unknowingly) by scientists in many fields, as well as by people in all walks of life. Some, who recognize it as a natural gift, have used it all their lives; while others work to develop this talent within themselves.

Q85. Have you ever heard of Ashtar ?

A: Yes, many times. From all I have been able to learn, "Ashtar" communicates only through mystical channels. He claims to be a commander over several million space men, and makes promises, prophesies the future, speaks of good and evil, threatens, divides, etc., none of which conforms with what I have learned from the space people. I have never had Ashtar's existence as a physical space traveler corroborated by those with whom I meet.

A number of the Ashtar "messages" have been sent to me, and upon reading them carefully I have found bits of truth scattered here and there. But this is always the case; for falseness could not exist if it were not for the real from which it is patterned. It is the presence of these little points of truth that causes so much confusion in the minds of those who sincerely seek reality, but who want it on a factual rather than a mystical basis. If anything is universal, it will blend but not divide.

While I do not deny the existence of people on planets beyond our system who are both higher and very much lower than ourselves in development, why should we follow "guidance" from anyone who cannot help us? With our present distrustful attitude toward one another, surely we do not need to reach out into space to add to our divisions.

I could admit the actually of Ashtar as a thought vibration, much in line with thoughts from past and present civilizations of Earth; but nothing more. Such thoughts can be picked up by anyone who opens his mind to the reception of whatever might be passing. That is why we should at all times be selective regarding the impressions we entertain. This is explained clearly and simply in my course on TELEPATHY, The Cosmic of Universal Language, which is now available.

Q86. What have the Brothers told you about the Deros and Teros as described by certain authors ?

A: The Brothers have stated emphatically that there are no races of human beings living within our Earth, or for that matter, within any planet. With the scientific instruments we have today, the presence of such a race could not remain undetected. Remember, during this International Geophysical Year the world's scientists are using implements capable of reading conditions in the molten core of our planet. Since this research is being conducted over every section of the globe, do you think that these "colonies" could remain undiscovered ?

Stop and think for a moment. We all know that human beings cannot live without air. Even in our deep mines it is necessary to pump fresh air into the shafts constantly for the men working underground. How, then, could a race of people live in the "bowels" of the Earth ?

The only "Deros and Teros" to be found are those illusions fostered by an egotistical imagination. Under circumstances where an unnatural condition prevails, such as lack of oxygen or exposure to certain gaseous fumes, sometimes there is a tendency for the mind to be influenced to the place where it will accept preposterous ideas as factual.

We are all familiar with the effects of delirium tremens, wherein the hallucinations are very real to the patient. The most earnest reassurances will not convince him that the "snakes" he sees do not exist. It is during comparable periods of mental instability that the mind will accept as real, almost any idea presented to it.

Scientists are just beginning to comprehend the potentials of the mind, and acknowledge that it is subject to many misconceptions due to a lack of self-understanding. This is the only logical explanation for such things as "Deros and Teros." But again, let me remind you that our instruments would unerringly detect their presence if they were real.

The impossibility of messages being broadcast without their source being discovered by the authorities who regulate the air waves is self-evident.

No ! There are no people dwelling deep within our planet, controlling the destinies of those who live on the surface.

Let us use common sense in weighing all these things. God has given us a brain, let us use it intelligently.

Q87. People who claim they have been on other planets, some of whom have tapes and recordings said to have been made by space people, and who have published reports of their experiences, insist the space travelers are etherians, who materialize and dematerialize. You say they are flesh and blood. If I had not seen their ships I would forget the whole matter. Sometimes I wish I had never sighted their craft, for the conflicting claims have me confused. Can you clarify this for me ?

A: I understand how you feel. There are times when I, too, almost wish I had never met these wonderful people; for then I would be in a position to openly expose a vast amount of the deception that is being perpetrated in their names. As it is, I would be accused of jealousy and condemned immediately should I publicly criticize those who are deliberately distorting the truth and making a mockery of that which is so fine.

I honestly wish that all the professed contacts were factual. Further, I also wish that every man, woman and child could have the privilege and pleasure of meeting the visitors. The space people, too, have expressed their desire to reveal their identities to all Earthlings, or at least to communicate with us mentally. But they say we are so preoccupied with our own thoughts that we are unable to receive impressions when they do send them. And because of our skepticism, as well as our gullibility in accepting self-aggrandizing imposters, the visitors move quietly amongst us, unrecognized by the Earthlings they contact daily.

Q12 explains the fallacy of the belief in etherians. Q35 answers the query regarding materialization and dematerialization.

To date I know of no authentic publicized recordings, either tape or platter, which were made by the space people in their ships, on their home planets, or even here on Earth. I know many such recordings are claimed to have been made under one or more of these circumstances, but thus far the Brothers have denied the authenticity of any of them.

As for worrying about this matter, I would advise ceasing this practice immediately. Worry depletes the body cells, closes the door of the mind, and has never yet solved a problem.

Q88. There is so much confusion in the saucer literature today that one finds it difficult to separate the true from the mystic. Will you name some of the authors whose experiences are real ?

A: This would not be a wise thing for me to do, because I am sure many of those who have written believe their experiences to be genuine. To them, they are real.... but so are dreams to the dreamer. And it is unfortunate that much of the literature written about contacts falls into this category.

There is one method by which each person can make his own deductions regarding that which he reads. Let me explain it this way: Unless you, yourself, are a wishful dreamer, when you read something that complies with Nature's laws, you will have a feeling of harmony within your being. This can be accepted wherever it is found.

But when there are divisions, condemnations, judgement, prophecies (especially naming specific dates), promises of personal reward, etc., which do not conform with Cosmic Law, a feeling of uneasiness, fear, or discontentment will be aroused in the mind of the reader. All material of this sort can be discarded without a second thought.

People and Nature being what they are, conditions can be altered to prevent a definite prophecy from being fulfilled. So living moment by moment as they do, those of other worlds observe events unfolding and meet each circumstance as it arises to the best of their ability. For this reason, they make neither promises nor prophecies.

Q89. I have recently received literature stating that another writer and lecturer has met and been instructed by Orthon. Also, that the space people deliberately lie to us at times, deceiving us in an effort to test us. Is this true ?

A: No ! I received this same report before my last meeting with Orthon, and knowing that many inquiries would come to me from around the world, I asked him if he had met this person. He replied that he had neither met the claimant physically, nor had he communicated telepathically.

He said that although sincere in every respect, this mind was too confused to receive messages from any of the space travelers whom he knew. Such claims, he continued, were nothing more than the result of wishful thinking.

The more recently published statement by this same person that the space people deliberately deceive us in order to test us, confirms the correctness of what Orthon said. For if one were helping a fellow being up a hill, would he deliberately push him down just to see if he were capable of climbing up by himself; especially if injury might result from the fall ? The same would be true if lies and deception practiced by the space people, for those of us who know and trust them would be irrevocably hurt.

Let us remember these people are more advanced than we, and have reached that stage only by passing through and conquering the experiences we are now undergoing. They understand the struggles confronting Earthlings, therefore feel a deep compassion for us. As I have said many times, they have told me repeatedly that they only want to help us—if we will but listen and accept their help. They have no desire to hurt us, and deceit, which would naturally awaken distrust, could undo years and even centuries of their labor amongst us.

Since the publication of my book I have received many communications containing “messages” from the Space Brothers, bearing the names I used in INSIDE THE SPACE SHIPS. If you will read this book carefully, you will notice that these were not their real names, but merely a means of identification used for the convenience of the reader.

The Brothers realized many people would come forward, claiming to have been given “messages” in these names. For this reason I was assured at that time they would never thus identify themselves. They promised, should an occasion ever arise when they wanted to send a message to me through another, they would identify themselves by names they can give me; which have never been published. To date I have never received ▼ On October 11, 1974, at 6.25 a.m., a high school boy, Kazuhiko Fujimatasu (16), of Onomichi, Hiroshima Pref., had a feeling that something was about to happen and opened a window of his room. He was surprised to see a large mothership fly over his house, and he snapped a photograph of it. After that, a small flying saucer flew in the opposite direction. He succeeded in taking a picture of it, too. This saucer is very much like the Venusian flying saucer (above) photographed by George Adamski.

WHAT IS GAP-JAPAN

GAP stands for "Get-Acquainted Program." The original GAP was established by George Adamski, a famous American contactee in the 1950s. There were more than ten GAP groups throughout the world when Adamski passed away in 1965.

GAP-Japan was founded by Hachiro Kubota (now 72) in 1961 at Adamski's request. The two men had shared correspondence since 1954, and Kubota learned much about UFOs and cosmic philosophy under Adamski's guidance. Adamski's many letters to Kubota are included in "The Complete Works of George Adamski-Vol.5." The full 10-volume set has been translated into Japanese by Kubota. In June, an eleventh volume will be added, this one containing Adamski's lectures given around the country. One of his students, Alice Pomeroy, transcribed them from tape recordings and sent them to Kubota a few years ago.

GAP-Japan has 1700 members and 17 branches throughout Japan. Every month the Tokyo headquarters and the branches hold seminars to study Adamski's cosmic philosophy, using his book "Cosmic Philosophy," which is Vol.7 of the Complete Works.

GAP-Japan publishes a quarterly magazine (in Japanese) called "UFO contactee" and an annual English edition of the same title. Kubota has written many books on UFOs and mysterious phenomena throughout the world that are thought to be associated with UFOs — Mayan ruins in Mexico, the miracle of Lourdes, France, the great phenomenon in Fatima, Portugal, the ruins of Jesus, Israel, and more — all based on his own research.

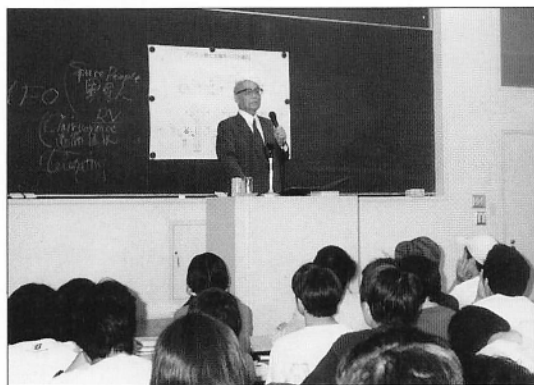

Kubota and members of GAP-Japan have also made a number of trips to Desert Center, California, to visit the spot where Adamski met a man from the planet Venus on November 20, 1952. When a group of members along with Kubota and Daniel Ross were there on January 27, 1992, they saw a giant mothership appear and fly over their heads for several minutes! Kubota later received important information from a cosmic source, that the mothership was from Venus!

GAP-Japan holds a General Assembly each autumn in Tokyo. Members attend the large gathering from all over the country, listen to lectures, and then enjoy a grand dinner party where they can meet and deepen the friendship among themselves.

Hachiro Kubota, representative of GAP-Japan, has reason to know that George Adamski's claims are absolutely true: There are twelve planets in our solar system, and each of them is home to a tremendous civilization. What are called Unidentified Flying Objects are in fact highly sophisticated space ships from those planets, coming to research and help Earth. The people of Earth will become aware of these facts in the future — by the year 2020 at the latest. This is not a fantasy. It is the reality of our solar system.

Have your own dreams and expectations.
